INSIDEOUT

THREE CHANGES GOING FROM TRANSIT TO INSIDEOUT

TIME InsideOut meets on Sunday afternoons. There are a few reasons for this. Meeting in the afternoon allows our high school students to serve in another environment on Sunday mornings; there are fewer conflicts with high school athletics; and our small groups have more time to talk and connect.

FREEDOM As in many other areas of their life, your student will be gaining more freedom at InsideOut. They are going to be given more free time at camps and more hang time at InsideOut. And for many of them, when they turn 16, they might be driving themselves to InsideOut. We hope that expanding their independence at church during these four years will help lay a foundation for valuing and pursuing being part of a church community, which will serve them well in their college years and beyond.

HOLIDAYS Since InsideOut meets in the afternoon, there will be a few extra Sundays during the year when we won't meet. Not meeting on certain holiday weekends or during school breaks allows our students and volunteers to spend that time with their families. We will do our best to communicate these "off" weeks well in advance. Make sure you're getting our emails and following us on Instagram to stay updated!

THREE THINGS THAT WON'T CHANGE

LEADERS Like most environments at our church, InsideOut is built around consistent small groups. Your student will have two or three great small group leaders who have been vetted, screened, and trained. These leaders will be with your student's group from 9th through 12th grade, so introduce yourself and get to know them. You'll be glad you did!

OUTINGS We encourage our leaders to attend students' extracurricular activities and plan outings to help your student's group bond. Students need a safe place to talk about their lives and struggles. Interactions outside of Sunday afternoons go a long way in building relationships within the group.

CAMPS Each year your student will have the opportunity to go on two overnight retreats with their small group. InsideOut Daytona is our summer beach retreat, and Vertical Reality is our winter weekend retreat. Registration is open for InsideOut Daytona. This is an incredible opportunity for your student's new group to quickly form deep, meaningful relationships. Sign up today!
